FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

12. Vantage Corporation purports to be a technology and investment company specializing in “proprietary configurable trading solutions.” Utilizing alleged trading algorithms and models, Vantage Corporation claims it can process substantial amounts of real time financial trading data in order to exploit trading opportunities to generate significant investment returns.

13. In 2014 Vantage Corporation sought outside investor funding. Askew, on behalf of Vantage Corporation, made general solicitations to obtain investor funding, including, upon information and belief, soliciting and/or selling to unaccredited investors as defined under federal and state rules and regulations.

14. Askew solicited Plaintiffs for an investment in Vantage Corporation. Askew does not hold a securities license nor is he a registered investment advisor.

15. Wilson Carter invested a total of $3,000,000 in Vantage Corporation. All of these solicitations and investments were made in the State of Georgia.

16. On or about January 27, 2016, Carter purchased 476.962702 Class A shares in Vantage Corporation for $1,000,000. Carter executed a Stock Subscription Agreement in connection with this purchase. Carter subsequently invested an additional $2,000,000.

17. A portion of the investments made by Wilson Carter were contributed by the Bailey Middleton Carter 2009 Trust, the Mary Wilson Carter 2009 Trust, and the Wilson M. Carter 1988 Trust.

18. Tara Scott invested a total of $2,000,000 in Vantage Corporation. All of these solicitations and investments were made in the State of Georgia.

19. On or about January 28, 2016, Scott purchased 476.962702 Class A Shares in Vantage Corporation shares for $1,000,000. Scott executed a Stock Subscription Agreement in connection with this purchase. Scott subsequently invested an additional $1,000,000.

20. Between September 29, 2016 and October 24, 2016, Scott sold 262.329485 Class A Shares in transactions arranged by Vantage Corporation, recouping a portion of her investment.

21. Plaintiffs made these investments and purchased Vantage Corporation stock as a result of direct misrepresentations and omissions made to them by Askew. As a result, Askew offered for sale and sold Plaintiffs Vantage Corporation stock within the State of Georgia and in violation of the Georgia Uniform Securities Act of 2008, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-1 et. seq. (“the Georgia Securities Act”), as well as the Securities Act of 1933 (“the 1933 Act”).

22. Upon information and belief, Askew received direct or indirect compensation for his role in soliciting investments in Vantage Corporation.

23. Upon information and belief, when Askew offered for sale and sold the Vantage Corporation stock to Plaintiffs, Askew was acting on behalf of Vantage Corporation and its subsidiaries, Vantage Advisory Management, LLC, VF(x) LP, Tradelogix, LLC (collectively, “Vantage Corporation’s Subsidiaries”), was acting within the scope of his positions at Vantage Corporation and Vantage Corporation’s Subsidiaries, was acting as an agent and representative of Vantage Corporation and Vantage Corporation’s Subsidiaries, and was authorized to act on behalf of Vantage Corporation and Vantage Corporation’s Subsidiaries.

24. Upon information and belief, at the time that Askew offered for sale and sold Plaintiffs the Vantage Corporation stock, Gerald Finegold was a director of Vantage

Corporation, and/or officer of Vantage Corporation, and/or a control person of Vantage Corporation and/or Askew under Section 15 of the 1933 Act, 15 U.S.C. § 77o and the Georgia Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-58(g).

25. The stock in Vantage Corporation sold to Plaintiffs is a “security” as that term is defined the 1933 Act, 15 U.S.C. § 77b and the Georgia Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-2.

26. At the time the stock was offered for sale and sold to Plaintiffs, the stock was not subject to an effective registration statement pursuant to the Georgia Securities Act, O.C.G.A. § 10-5-1 et seq., or exempt from registration pursuant to O.C.G.A. §§ 10-5-10 or 10-5-12. At the time the stock was offered for sale and sold to Plaintiffs, the stock was not subject to an effective registration statement pursuant to section 5 of the 1933 Act, 15 U.S.C. § 77e, or exempt from registration.

27. At the time the stock was offered for sale and sold to Plaintiffs, Askew was not registered as a securities salesperson or an investment advisor with the Georgia Commissioner of Securities as required by § 10-5-1 et seq.

28. Before Plaintiffs purchased Vantage Corporation stock, Askew assured Plaintiffs that 70% of their investment was to be placed in a segregated account for the benefit of each investor.

29. In reliance on this representation, Plaintiffs purchased Vantage Corporation stock.

30. Askew knowingly made this false representation to induce Plaintiffs’ investment. Askew knew or should have known that Vantage Corporation had no intention of creating investment accounts for Plaintiffs.

31. Vantage Corporation in fact failed to place Plaintiffs’ investments into segregated accounts for their benefit.

32. Askew represented to Plaintiffs that Vantage Corporation was raising funds for a general partnership structure, which would allow investors to participate in ownership of the company, its intellectual property, and revenue streams going forward.

33. Before Plaintiffs purchased Vantage Corporation stock, Askew represented to Plaintiffs that through their investment, they would become general partners of a Vantage-related entity.

34. In reliance on this representation, Plaintiffs purchased Vantage Corporation stock and reasonably believed they would also become general partners in a Vantage-related entity.

35. Askew knowingly made this false representation to induce Plaintiffs' investment.

36. Plaintiffs never became general partners of any Vantage Corporation related entity; instead, Plaintiffs are minority shareholders in Vantage Corporation.

37. Before Plaintiffs purchased Vantage Corporation stock, Askew represented to Plaintiffs that Vantage Corporation's systems and strategies had reached a level of maturity and stability to invest significantly large amounts of trading capital. Askew represented to Plaintiffs that Vantage Corporation held 100% ownership of all the proprietary software and systems and intellectual property needed for its business model.

38. In reliance on this representation, Plaintiffs purchased Vantage Corporation stock and reasonably believed their investments would be used primarily as capital for trading with profits derived from Defendants' expertise. Plaintiffs reasonably believed they were investing in an existing and profitable strategy and company.

39. Askew knowingly made this false representation to induce Plaintiffs' investment. Askew knew that Vantage Corporation did not own the purported proprietary software and system or intellectual property needed for the business model presented to Plaintiffs.

40. Instead, TradeVue, LLC owned the purported proprietary software and system or intellectual property needed for the business model presented to Plaintiffs. Askew is the sole and managing member of TradeVue, LLC.

41. In 2016, after Plaintiffs made their investment, Vantage Corporation paid TradeVue, LLC $2,447,853 for purported software and intellectual property. Upon information and belief, Askew received all or a significant portion of these funds.

42. Since making their investments, Plaintiffs have made multiple inquiries to understand their role in Vantage Corporation, as well as the sources and uses of their investment.

43. Vantage Corporation and Askew have refused to supply Plaintiffs information regarding the use of their investment.

44. Plaintiffs hereby tender back their Vantage Corporation stock to Defendants.
