All 271,000 ETH (and counting):
<https://etherscan.io/address/0xb56d622ddf60ec532b5f43b4ff9b0e7b1ff92db3>

FMA whenever this "progressive selloff" occurs.

it would be idiotic for them to keep all contributed funds in that wallet and then start selling from it. im sure they will move the eth elsewhere and then sell on their own timeframe so that they can time their sales opportunistically.

Sure, but it doesn't change the fact they haven't yet transferred any ETH out, which as you say is the first step to liquidating.

with that volume you would expect tezos to conduct a trade OTC rather than through an exchange they're probably slowly liquidating the btc.

unlike with eth, there's no single btc address they're using to collect all the contributions. so far they haven't moved any of the btc in the address i sent to the ico, but that's likely not true of all the addresses.

Just a reminder, contributions to the Tezos' foundation's fundraiser are not "investments". The foundation will recommend allocation of tokens in the genesis block based on contributions.
